And All Her Kindred

PREFACE.

The following records have been collected and arranged for publication not alone for our present gratification but that they may be the better preserved for descendants and future generations. I wish to acknowledge my indebtedness to the Minnesota State Historical Society and their Officials for their kindness in allowing me the use of their extensive Library of History and Geneology from which I gleaned much of the information concerning our ancestry. I am also indebted to Henry Stoddard Ruggles of Wakefield, Mass., a descendant of John Kingsley and from whose book along another line of Kingsley descendants, and through whose personal correspondence and suggestions I was enabled from various sources and researches to trace our connection with John Kingsley who came to America about 1635. I am indebted also to Gen. Levi G. Kingsley of Rutland, Vt., whose name was furnished me by H. S. Ruggles and whom I found to be a great grandson of Salmon Kingsley. He has given me valuable information as did also Frank P. Fenton, the present town clerk of Windham, Conn., where our ancestors lived for several generations.

I must not forget to mention my mother, Betsey Ann Kingsley Brown, the oldest living descendant of Salmon Kingsley, to my knowledge, who has given much valuable information. I wish to thank all the present generation of Kingsley descendants for the valuable information and records furnished me which has made this collection possible.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 1, 1907.

ORIGIN OF THE FAMILY AND NAME OF KINGSLEY

Tradition says that as William II of England or William Rufus (the Red King) was one day hunting in the New Forest, he became separated from his companions and attendants, and wandering aimlessly about through forest and glade, became hopelessly lost. But just as night was closing in with its darkness and gloom, he espied a friendly light gleaming from the cabin of one of the yeomen who lived on the confines of the forest. Hastening thither, he begged shelter for the night, without making his identity known. He was kindly received and hospitably entertained so far as the means at hand in the humble abode would allow. The man of the house at once slaughtered a young goat from which, with other means at hand, his good wife prepared a savory repast, whose delightful odors reached the nostrils of the hungry King and whose delectable flavors greatly pleased his palate.

The King of course being weary from the arduous sports of the day, the humble couch provided him brought most refreshing slumbers, from which he awoke to partake of another bounteous repast, which the wife had prepared (such as her female descendants have ever since been noted for preparing).

In going abroad by the light of day he discovered that he was in his own meadow or Lea, as it was anciently called in England.

He was so delighted with the hospitality he had received that he bestowed the whole of that portion of his domain known as the King's Lea upon his host and made him a Baron. The recipient took the name of the land bestowed upon him, Kyngesleigh (or Kingsley), and the family crest or coat of arms contains the King's crown surmounted by a goat's head.

KINGSLEY ANCESTRY.

Direct Line of Ancestors From John to Joseph.

John Kingsley came from Hampshire, England, to Boston, Mass., and settled at Dorchester in 1635. He afterwards removed to Rehoboth where he died in 1679. His third son

Eldad Kingsley, born in Mass., 1638, married Mehatible Mansey, daughter of Roger Mansey. He died at Rehoboth, Mass., in 1679. His first son

John Kingsley born at Rehobeth, Mass., May 6, 1665, died at Windham, Conn., May 17, 1732. He married Sarah Sabin, daughter of Samuel Sabin. His fourth son

Ezra Kingsley, born at Windham, Conn., Dec. 10, 1698. He married Elizabeth Wright Dec. 31, 1719. His son

Salmon Kingsley the 1st, born at Windham, Conn., Sept. 27, 1723, was married to Lydia Burg, Jan. 24, 1743. His son Salmon Kingsley the 2nd, born at Windham, Conn., Sept. 17, 1755, married first Alatheia Smith who died at Ira, Vt., Oct. 16, 1792, age 36. He married second Betsey Farge, a widow whose maiden name was Chubb. He was a soldier in the war of the American Revolution. He moved from Vermont to Mich. in 1825 and died at Livonia, Wayne County, Mich., Sept. 23, 1827.

Joseph Kingsley, son of Salmon and Alatheia Smith, born at Hartford, Conn., Feb. 15, 1780. He married first Lucinda Winchester who died at Ira, Vt., Jan. 31, 1808, age 23. Second he married Lucy Farge, daughter of his father's second wife. He moved to Mich. in 1825, and died at Livonia Oct. 20, 1855. His second wife (Lucy) died at Plymouth, Mich., Sept. 19, 1880. She was born in Mass., March 10, 1786.

JOHN KINGSLEY.

In Vol. VI American Ancestry on page 207, we find the following: "John Kingsley of Dorchester, Mass., born at Hampshire, Eng., emigrated from there to Taunton, Mass., where he was one of the original purchasers. Removed to Dorchester 1635. His ancestors spelled the name Kyngesley, and bore these arms: Vert, a cross engrailed ermine, crest in a ducal coronet gules a goats head argent. Descended from Randulphus de Kyngesleigh of Chester 1120."

In the history of Dorchester, Mass. By the Committee of the antiquarian and Historical Society (Page 125) we also find the following: "John Kinsley or Kingsley was here as early as 1635. He was a grantee of land in 1635 and one of the original signers of the covenant in 1636. He had a share in the great lots in 1646, was a rater in 1648 and a free-man in 1651. He had a son named Eldad born in Dorchester in 1638 and a daughter, Renewed, born Jan. 19, 1644; He had a son Enos who went to Northampton and a daughter who married Samuel Jones, son of Richard Jones. John Kingsley married a daughter of William Daniels of Milton and lived there in 1670."

From the vital statistics of Rehoboth, Mass., where he lived during the later years of his life, we learn that John Kingsley was buried Jan. 6, 1678. Also that Alice the wife of John Kingsley was buried Jan. 14, 1673.

He was one of the seven original members who organized the Church at Dorchester in 1636 and signed the Covenant. Rev. Richard Mather the grandfather of Cotton Mather was the first pastor under the covenant. Kingsley was the last of the seven to survive.

He was a man of strong religious convictions and was obliged to leave England on account of his religious principles.

The first letter in the appendix gives us an insight into the character of the man. It is taken from the Public Records of the Colony of Conn. Vol. covering Records from 1665 to 1678. Pages 445 to 447.

Following is an extract from the Atlas of Portage Co. Ohio in connection with the history of Walcott Chafee who married Abigail Kingsley, a descendant of John Kingsley.

"They were members of the colony of New Plymouth and arrived in 1630, the first bearing the family name in this country being John Kingsley junior. The family name was continued in the person of Eldad who had a son John, etc."

Following is a list of the children of John Kingsley of Dorchester, Mass., as taken from Henry Stoddard Ruggles' Geneology of the Kingsley family. He says that we can not feel at all sure that the list is a complete one.

Sons: John, Samuel, Eldad, Enos, Edward.

Salmon—Sixth Generation.

Salmon Kingsley, fifth son of Salmon Kingsley and Lydia Burgess his wife, was born at Windham, Conn., Sept. 17, 1755, and died at Livonia, Mich., Sept. 23, 1827. He married Alathea Smith, daughter of Nathaniel Smith and Hannah Walden his wife. She was born at Windham, Conn., Mar. 14, 1757, and died at Ira, Rutland Co., Vermont, Oct. 16, 1792.

He married second Betsey Farge* a widow whose maiden name was Chubb. She was born in Mass. in 1766 or 7 and died at Livonia, Mich., Aug. 9, 1829, aged 62. He was a soldier in the War of the American Revolution. Was in Capt. John Kingsley's Co. of Minute men who marched from Windham, Conn., for the relief of Boston at the Lexington Alarm April 1775. Was in the war at various times till its close. Was at one time a sergeant. He is said to have settled on a piece of land in the Hampshire Grants as early as 1776 in what afterwards became Ira, Rutland Co., Vt. Here he moved his family at the close of the war and remained there till 1825, when he moved to Michigan and lived with his son Joseph in Livonia. Several of his children moved to Michigan about this time, besides Joseph there was Salmon, who lived near Kalamazoo, Dennis near Northville, Alathea and Betsey who lived in Livonia and his youngest daughter Adaline who married Ira Hough soon after her arrival with her parents. Hers was the first wedding in the Township. They settled on a farm in Canton. He (Salmon Kingsley) died Sept. 23, 1827, and was buried on his son's farm in what is now called Newberg Cemetery and was the first person laid to rest there.

ton and afterward at Plymouth, Mich. Died there.
Fidelia, died at Ira, Vt., Mar. 14, 1809, aged 9 mos.

Joseph—Seventh Generation.

Joseph Kingsley, son of Salmon Kingsley and his first wife, Alatha Smith, was born at Hartford, Conn., Feb. 15, 1780. He married first Lucinda Winchester who died Jan.
31, 1808 at Ira, Rutland Co., Vt., aged 23. By this union one child, Lucinda, was born. She died at Ira, Vt., Mar. 29, 1813, aged 6 years.

He married second, Lucy Farge, the daughter of Betsey
Farge, his father's second wife. She was born in Mass.,
Mar. 10, 1786.

Joseph Kingsley was a soldier in the War of 1812, having enlisted Sept. 17, 1812, in Capt. Mason Ormsbee's Company in the First Regiment of Vermont Militia, Col. Martindale commanding, according to records in the War Dept. at Washington, D. C.

In 1825 he migrated to Michigan with his family. They started from Ira on the morning of May 2nd, in a wagon with a white linen cover, the cloth for which had been spun and woven by his wife from flax raised on their farm. They traveled in their wagon to Buffalo, N. Y., and then sent their horses back to Vermont by his brother, who thus far accompanied them. Here they loaded all their belongings into a Schooner and sailed across Lake Erie and up the river to Detroit. The whole journey which can now be made by train in less than 24 hours, took them four weeks.

Leaving his family in Detroit, a short time, he struck westward through the forests about 18 miles into what is now the township of Livonia. There on the extreme western outskirts of civilization, he built a log house. Into this when only partly finished and before the doors and windows were in place or the spaces between the logs "chinked" he moved his family, bringing them from Detroit over rude roads in their wagon yoked to oxen. The Indians were at first more numerous than white neighbors. The first night of their arrival, at their new home, a large band of Indians on their annual journey to Detroit to get their pay for lands sold to the government, encamped in the little clearing surrounding the Kingsley Home and in the forests all around them. Many of these red natives of the forests peered into the open spaces between the logs of the new house at the pale faced strangers with children almost awe-struck sitting around the big fire in the large open fire place.

There was little sleep for the older members of the family that night, as the good wife, the mother of five small children, was sick and not accustomed to such strange surroundings. Besides that the bells on the Indians' horses, the barking of their dogs and the howling of the wolves, made so much noise that there was little rest for the tired family. The Indians, however, proved peaceable and harmless, never giving any trouble, although for many years they often camped near by on account of the fine spring water on the Kingsley place. It was this fine spring that induced him to settle in that particular locality. There were at first no white neighbors to the westward, but during that year, houses were built in Plymouth and also at Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor. He assisted in laying out the road known as the Territorial Road but which is now known as the Ann Arbor Road. The family of course had to endure all the privations of pioneers on the frontier and all suffered much from fever and ague, each summer for a few years.

They soon had the log house fixed up comfortably and lived there ten years. In 1835 they built a comfortable and commodious new frame house which was considered quite elegant in those days. It is still standing on the old farm half a mile east of Newberg Village. Here he died Oct. 21, 1855. His wife survived him nearly 25 years and died Sept. 19, 1880, at the residence of her son, Albert Kingsley in Plymouth Township. She was beloved by all who knew her for her sterling qualities and Christian Graces. She never failed to read her Bible every day as long as she could see and during the latter years of her life, after she became entirely blind, she loved to have her children and grandchildren read her the scriptures as she always termed it. She also had the misfortune to break her leg a few years before she passed away, so that during her later years, she was unable to walk, but she bore her misfortune uncomplainingly and with great fortitude, spending a large portion of her time in knitting.

Betsy Ann Kingsley, daughter of Joseph Kingsley and Lucy Farge, his wife, was born Sept. 14, 1820, at Ira, Rutland Co., Vt., in sight of the Green Mountains. In 1825 her parents moved to Michigan where for several years they endured all the privations of frontier life. Her educational advantages were limited. She attended district school at Newberg and later a Select school at Northville, Mich., for a few months. At the age of 13, she united with the Presbyterian Church, her Pastor being the Rev. George Worthington. The church was built on her father's farm. It still stands there but is now occupied by the Methodists. She began teaching school at Livonia Center in the summer of 1838. She next taught in Nankin School District No. 3, the same district where she afterward lived for many years and where most of her children were born. She also taught at Coopers Corners in the town of Plymouth and two terms in Canton where her uncle Ira Hough lived, and lastly in her old home district at Newberg. She spent some of her time when not teaching in Detroit, where she learned the trade of cap-making and trimming men's hats. She was married Mar. 20, 1845, at the home of her parents in Livonia, to Reuben J. Brown. Rev. George Eastman performed the marriage ceremony, in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends. Her husband, Reuben J. Brown, son of Reuben Brown and Rosanna Sherwood, his wife, was born at Homer, Courtland Co., N. Y., Feb. 1, 1819. He came west to Mich. in 1842, where he taught school before being married and at various times for many years after. They first lived in Nankin, one year and then moved to Redford, where they bought a farm and while there built a new house. Four years later they sold out and moved back to Nankin where they bought a farm and built a new house on Sec. 6. They lived here over 20 years, then they traded farms and moved to Superior, Washtenaw Co., Feb. 12, 1873. In 1885 they built a new house on the farm 6 miles southwest of Plymouth. Here he died Aug. 27, 1893. She still owns the farm but resides with her youngest daughter Mrs. Lydia King, near Ypsilanti in the same township.

SUMMARY OF DESCENDANTS OF JOSEPH KINGSLEY.

Joseph Kingsley had nine children. Of these five were married and reared families. Two are still living, Betsey Ann Brown and Lydia B. Gorton, of the children who married.

Mary B. Adams had three children, one married and one is now living.

Albert Kingsley had six children, four married and three are now living.

Betsey Ann Brown had seven children, seven married and seven are now living.

Lydia B. Gorton had three children, two married and two are now living.

Lucy J. Sheldon had one child, one married and one is now living.

He had twenty grandchildren, fourteen are now living, fifteen were married.

He had forty great grandchildren, thirty-three are living and twelve are married. He had fourteen great-great grandchildren, twelve are living. He has had therefore nine children, twenty grandchildren, forty great grandchildren and fourteen great-great grandchildren, making a total of eighty-five descendants. These, with the husbands and wives of the thirty-two who married, makes a grand total of one hundred and fifteen in the family of descendants. There are now living two children, fourteen grandchildren and thirty-three great grandchildren and twelve great-great grandchildren, making a total of sixty-one living descendants. These, with the twenty-five husbands and wives still living, make a family of eighty-six.

SUMMARY BY FAMILIES.

Mary B. Adams had three children, one (Eva) is still living, and one (Celestia) was married. She had two grandchildren, both are living, and three great grandchildren, all living. She therefore had a total of eight descendants with six living.

Albert Kingsley had six children, three are living and four were married. There were thirteen grandchildren, twelve are living and six are married, and eleven great grandchildren with nine living. There was a total of thirty descendants with twenty-four living.

Betsey A. Brown has seven children all living and all were married. Nineteen grandchildren with sixteen living, making a total of twenty-six descendants, with twenty-three living.

Lydia B. Gorton had three children, two are living, and six grandchildren with three living, making nine descendants with five living.

Lucy J. Sheldon had one child. She is now living and the only descendant. To Albert Kingsley and wife Mary Jane McConnell who is still living, therefore belongs the honor of having the largest number of descendants, thirty, with twenty-four living. This honor, however, they divide with his sister Betsey A. Brown, who has seven children, all living, and nineteen grand children with sixteen living.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 1, 1907.

APPENDIX

At a meeting of the Councill Hartford May 26 1676, Major Robert Treat, Esq., Dep. Gov.; Captain John Allyn and Mr. John Wadsworth.

Whereas the General Court ordered that there should be 600 bushels of wheat rased upon the county of Hartford, to be proportioned by the Authority of this county, upon the severall plantations, to be improved and baked into bread for the country's use, which is thus proportioned: upon Hartford, 174 bush.; Windsor, 152; Wethersfeild, 134; Farmington, 74; Middleton, 46; Hadum, 20, which is to be rased forthwith and brought to Hartford, to be ground into flour and baker pr the baker, all except Windsor proportion, which is to be baked there. The Secret'y to send out warrants to the respective townes, accordingly.

May 30, 1676. To all Christian friends, the good people unto whome these present writings shall come greeting: Whereas we have received a letter bearing date May 5. '76, from one John Kingsley, of Seaconck or Rehoboth, whereby we are credibly informed of the great straights, difficulties and wants, not onely of * o' Christian friends there but of very many of o' dear friends the Lord's people in that Colony of New Plimouth and cleewhere, by reason of the prevayleing of the cruell enemy, by burning, killing and destroying people and places not a few; and being called upon for releife, we have thought fit to recommend it to your pious consideration to remember the poore and them that are in bonds, as bownd with them: it being a worke that even nature, God and man calls for of us, to extend o' compassion and charity for the supply of o' distressed freinds' necessities, whose lowd cryes of their misery doth answerably call for o' liberallity and mercy, least the Lord should justly turn his hand from them to vs. We desire that you would appoynt one in each congregation, to receive your liberality and to take care for the speedy and effectuall sending the same to Boston and Seaconck, to be distributed to those in necessities. Deacon Walker of Seaconck is recommended to vs as a suitable person to receive and distribute what shall be sent to Seaconck and the rest may be sent to Mr. Thatcher and Mr. Mather of Boston, to be by them put into some faythfull hands, to be distributed amongst the people in necessity in the Massachusetts and Plimouth Colony. Mr. Shepherd, added.

(JOHN KINGSLEY'S LETTER. Doc. 68.)

Ser, I sallvte you with al' that cal on the Lord Jesus, thayer Lord & oweres. I did despach a few lines to New Noriage & so to you & the rest on your river, but fearing it should not com to your hand & those which it concernes, I nowe in my sickness that the Lord hath laid on vs as hee did on Job—I am now in an fever or ague, yet I doe judge I folow Pale (Paul). I can say truly that since ovr wares begun my flesh is so gon with feare, care & grife & now this sickenes, my skin is redey to cleave to my bones. Now being vnknowne to you beloe on the river, I say I am the 1 (one) man & onely left of those that gathered the Chvrch that is now in Dorchester, yet of lat have lived at Rehoboth or Seconke & hath sufered deepe, with my neighborres. Now to tel you what wee have & how wee are like to sufer, my hart wil not hould to write & sheetes would (not) contayne. I am not able to beare the sad stories of ovr woeful day, when the Lord made ovr wolfish heathern to be our lordes, to fier our towne, shout & holow, to cal to us to com out of our garisones. Som did goe out alife, with suceses; but had not ovr God restrayned them, they were enow to have swallowed vs all vp. They burnt our milles, brake the stones, ye, our grinding stones; & what was hid in the erth they found, corne & fowles, kild catel & tooke the hind quarters & left the rest, yea, all that day that the Lord gave lisones (license) they burnt cartes wheles, drive away our catel, shipe, horses, in a word had not the Lord restrayned thay had not left won to have tould of our woful day.¹ Wee lost but on siley man that day.² Wee are shut vp in our garisones & dare not goe abroad far to our outlandes, without som strength. Som of our souldiers are removed. Nobodey comes to say, how doe ye. Counsel from Bost. & Plimouth was to stay, uncles all had gon that could and left the rest to perish, yet now every rod of ground neare garison is broaken vp & where house and barne stood now put in beanes & sqvashes; but alase, what wil doe against famin?

Now to leave all ovr danger, fear of sword, famen stares vs in the face. Now to my comfort I heare you have store of corn, ye, tho you doe not sow in som yeares. Now misery cales for mersey but I consave is distres.* The truth is my hart wil not beare to write. Ah, the burden that I beare night & day, to see the blesed and loving God thus angrey, & wee have not a Profet to tel how longe, & to say this or these are New Englandes sinn. For general sin cales vseley (usually) for generall plagve; which is now. Deare brethern, if there be power in your handes, doe not say, goe away & com agayne. It is betur to die by sord than famen. Therefore I beg in my Lourds (Lord's) name, to send vs som meal; for if wee sent it (to) Road Island there is won wolf in the way, & hee wil have money, which won of 40 hath not it to pay, tho thay starve; yea 1-sh (one shilling) for 1 bushel, caring & bringing. There is another, that is the miller, & hee takes an 8 part. O New Ingl. when wilt thou leave off opresing. It may be in som of your mindes to say, why doe not the hed men write, but onely this ould pore man. I say onely, I wil lay a mantel on my shoulder & goe pakewardes (backwards). There is but too (two) that knowes of my writing, & the won descoriged me, but I know how earnest Pal (Paul) beged prayefes that which hee cales grase might be expekted.

I pray if this com in to the hand of aney that fere God, doe against famin?

1. The Indians assaulted Rehoboth, on the 28th of March. They burnt thirty barns and near upon forty dwelling houses, thereby as it were threatening the utter desolation of that poor town.

2. Robert Beers, slain ye 28th March, 1676. It is said that he was a religious, but eccentric and superstitious man, and that on the approach of the Indians, he refused to go into the garrison house, but sat down in his own house, with the bible in his hand, believing that while he continued reading it, nothing could harm him. He was shot through the window, and fell with his bible in his hand.—Bliss History of Rehoboth, p. 56.

*This is believed to be the reading of the original; but the meaning is obscure. Probably one or more words necessary to complete the sentence, were omitted by the writer.

have a willing mind may hav a hand to save vs from famen. I doe not beg for money to bild houses, Ah noe, noe. If any wil send meale, pray let deacon Walker distribut it. I knowe no man like minded.

It would be a dishoner to such a people as you, to vse argements to stir you vp to such a worke. I leave this & you all to the good hand of God, throw Jesus Christ, who is the define head of that blessed Covenant of Grace & foyntayn of all good. Bere with my writing, who came of (off) my sicke bed to make an end of these lines.

JOHN KINGSLEY.

4. or 5 of 3 Mon. (Mar. 3rd) 1676.

If aney that here or recede wil tryst mee won harel of indian meal & won of wheat, I do promise to pay, I or mine, when the Lord shall tyn to his people with peace.

If aney know or here that Enoes Kingsley be alive, at Northampton, lett (him) know that I his father am a live tho no shelter for my grey head, onely with won swine God left when hee sent our enemyes to be our lordes, & blessed be his holy name; hee gave & hee tooke. Copy of Letter from Harvey Kingsley, Rutland, Vt., to J. S. Kingsley.

Mr. J. S. Kingsley,

Rutland, Vt., Mar. 9, 1889.

Dear Sir:

Your letter of Feb. 25th to my son L. G. Kingsley was handed to me to be answered. I will do the best I can. I am an old man over 81 years of age. You must make allowances accordingly.

It has been handed down to me that my grandfather, Salmon Kingsley, came from Wapping, Conn., to Ira, Vermont, very soon after of the War of the Revolution. His wife, Alathca Smith (whose father died in Becket) came with him. She died in Ira, Vt., Oct. 16, 1792, aged 36 years.

Unto them was born William, Joseph, Chester (my father), Althea, Jane, Salmon and Horace. His second wife was a widow Farge. They had Dennis, Orrin, Hiram, Betsey, Adaline, Lester and Fedelia.

Grandfather moved to Michigan 1825 and died there in 1827. William, his oldest son died in Ira in my boyhood. Betsey died in Castleton. Orin died in Mississippi. Dr. Lester practiced his profession in Moretown, Vt., some 50 years, and died there. The rest of the family except Chester, my father, moved west in 1825. Their history to me since that date is very limited.

Chester Kingsley was married to Rhoda Weeks (who came to Clarendon from Washington, Conn., Mar. 7, 1804): They had Eliza, Horace, Harvey, Henry, Althea, Harrison, Chester, Jr., Amos, Rhoda, Jane, Sabrice, William, John, Helen, Frances and William 2nd.

Eliza died Oct. 4, 1874. Had three children, all dead. Horace died July 17, 1886, had 5 children living. Althea July 7, 1843, one child living. John died Feb. 1, 1852, unmarried. The two Williams died in childhood. Seven of us boys grew to manhood. None of us used profane language, none drank rum, but two used tobacco and all of us, both boys and girls were communicants in different churches except two (a good record).

Harvey Kingsley married Alvira Gleason (died Dec. 11, '84) May 18, 1831. We had Levi G., Nahum P. and Elizabeth.

L. G. Kingsley has two children. He is in the hardware and furniture business in Rutland, Vt. Nahum P. has no children, resides in Rutland and deals in Western lands. Has handled some 50,000 acres. Elizabeth married A. W. Higgins, no children, resides in Rutland, is a wholesale and retail druggist.

I think the Vermont branch of the Kingsley family ought to feel somewhat proud of their war record. Grandfather Salmon Kingsley, I think, was in the entire Revolution. Was orderly sergeant and was at one time in command of the Fort at New London, Conn., and was, I am told, a good soldier and never had a pension. The first pension act gave pensions I believe to only those who were not worth over $500. He died before the law was altered, giving one to the whole rank and file who were honorably discharged. Uncle Joseph Salmon, and Dennis were in the war of 1812. Salmon (who died in Kalamazoo, Mich.) was in a company of Rangers (a hard service) and was badly wounded. Uncle Orrin had two sons in the Rebel Troups from Arkansas. One a Lieutenant. Both were taken prisoners at Fort Donaldson and taken to Chicago for exchange. Horace Kingsley had one son Henry, who now lives in Rutland. In the war he was discharged as a Brevet Major, was wounded. My son Levi G. went out in the 1st Regt. three months men as a Lieutenant and again went with the 12th Regt. as Major and has since been elected by the legislature of the State of Vermont, a Brig. General.

HARVEY KINGSLEY.

A REMARKABLE FAMILY.

The Kingsleys, Formerly of Clarendon and Brandon, All Lived to Great Age.

The members of the Kingsley family, an exact record of the ages of whom has been prepared by Newman Weeks, lived as a whole, to remarkably old age. Three members of the family are now living, and one was killed by accident. The records follow:

Chester Kingsley, senior; born in 1782, died in 1855, aged 73.

Rhoda Weeks Kingsley, senior; born in 1786, died in 1852, aged 66.

Their children: Eliza Kingsley Spencer of Sudbury, born in 1805, died in 1874, age 69; Horace Kingsley of Clarendon, born in 1806, died in 1887, age 81; Harvey Kingsley of Rutland, born in 1807, died in 1892, age 85; Henry Kingsley, of Middlebury, born in 1809, died in 1894, age 85 years; Althea Kingsley Gorham of Orwell, born in 1811, died in 1843, age 32; Harrison Kingsley of Clarendon, born in 1813, died in 1901, age 88; Chester Kingsley, jr., of Salisbury, born in 1815, died in 1889, age 74; Amos W. Kingsley of Minneapolis, Minn., born in 1816, died in 1902, age 86; Rhoda Kingsley Rust of Brandon, born in 1818, died in 1897, age 79; Jane Kingsley Barrett of Chicago, born in 1819 and now living, age 85; Sabra Kingsley Blackmer of Brandon, born in 1821 and now living, age 83; William Kingsley, first, of Clarendon, born in 1824, died in 1827, age three; John W. Kingsley of Brandon, born in 1826, killed by accident in 1852, age 26; Helen Kingsley Morrill, formerly of Brandon and Chicago, born in 1828, died in 1900, age 72; Frances Kingsley Burr of Broad Aubin, N. Y., born in 1829 and now living, age 76, and William Kingsley, second, of Clarendon, born in 1832, died in 1834, age two.—From Rutland, Vt., Daily Herald, May 24, 1905.

WAR RECORD OF SALMON KINGSLEY.
